Dear Pastor and Church,

Evangelism

In February we followed up with Grace, the unsaved lady whom Scot met on visitation. We visited again, hoping for a longer visit, but as it was a chilly, windy day, she was not willing to talk for long. Grace did ask for a Bible, and we were happy to drop one off for her on a later date. Unfortunately, she was not home on that day, but we plan to visit again quite soon, on a warm day, with the hopes of witnessing again to Grace. Pray that she will be receptive to the gospel and willing to come to church.

We also heard back from Peggy, who had visited in early February at our grand opening service. She has not returned to services yet, but said that she plans to visit again soon. Please pray that she will fulfill her promise.

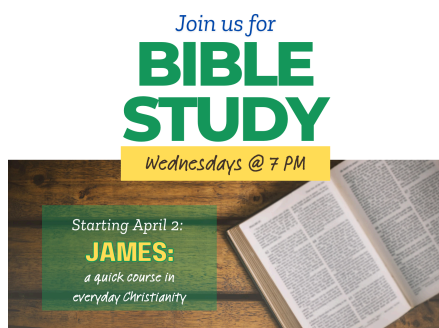

In early March, we had a return visitor, James, whom we met last year. Some recent difficulties—the loss of a job and the death of a grandparent—had made him feel the need to be around people. We were glad that he chose to come to church that Sunday evening. Please pray for James, as he usually chooses to watch church services (not ours) online, that he will see the need to be part of a local church. Pray, too, that if James is not saved, that we might have the opportunity again to share the gospel with him.

We are continuing our “Go, Sow, and Grow” evangelistic campaign for 2025. This coming Sunday will be our St. Patrick’s Day gospel delivery, when we go out as a church family after the morning service. At the end of February, we started a new initiative of reaching out to the new move-ins in Fluvanna with small bags of goodies plus John/Romans and church invitations. Please pray for God's blessing on our outreach as we knock on doors in Fluvanna and endeavor to share the gospel.

Special Services

This past Sunday, March 9, we were blessed to have our sending pastor, Pastor Marc Deloach of Albemarle Baptist in Charlottesville, preach in all three services. It was a blessing to have fellowship with him and Mrs. Deloach and to be encouraged in the Word.

Starting in April, Scot will begin a series on Wednesday nights in the book of James. We have had postcards printed advertising the series, and are giving them out in hopes of building our attendance to the weekday service.

In addition, we are looking forward to Easter, planning special music and looking forward to inviting the community to join us as we praise the risen Savior.

As always, we so appreciate your faithful prayers for our family and for FBBC. Please pray for encouragement in God's Word, for wisdom and boldness in giving out the gospel, for growth of the believers, and for souls to be saved at Foundations Bible Baptist Church in Fluvanna County, Virginia.

In His service,
Scot and Julie Jobe
